The old website performed some functions that the new web site does not - such as event planning and booking forms for the yard and other activities. The decision was made to keep the new website a bit simpler by handling those functions separately. Since this is being managed by volunteers and a small budget - we have first created the new 'public' website and will then begin work on all the inter active stuff.

But in the mean time, the old website is still available and running - so go to the members portal [<https://members.greenwichyachtclub.co.uk/> <https://members.greenwichyachtclub.co.uk/>] to do the following:

* Booking yard space

* Getting on the mooring waiting list

* See the events calendar

We are still working on updating our Web / IT infrastructure and since we are volunteers it might take a bit of time. If you have a question or suggestion please email: [<mailto:it@greenwichyachtclub.co.uk>]

As you will likely be aware, the club experienced a catastrophic failure of the members portal website. We are in the process of building a new members portal, but will provide some temporary solutions for things that were there. Watch this space... and we will announce on the TNA.

There is however a new Events Calender which you can see under the members corner menu on the left.

Looking for something?

As you will likely be aware, the club experienced a catastrophic failure of the members portal website. We are in the process of building a new members portal, but will provide some temporary solutions for things that were there. Watch this space... and we will announce on the TNA.

There is however a new Events Calender which you can see under the members corner menu on the left.

We are still working on updating our Web / IT infrastructure and since we are volunteers it might take a bit of time. If you have a question or suggestion please email: it@greenwichyachtclub.co.uk

Odyssey from North Wales to the Black Sea	no n	And for sheer oddness AJ Mackinon's Jack de Crow on sailing from Gloucester to the mouth of the Danube is a good read.	Crow-Odyssey-ebook/dp/B01E7Z7FLA/
The last grain race	Eric Newby	Eric Newby, who went on to become a famous travel writer, signed up for 18 months with the largest sailing fleet still in existence in 1938. This is his account of his first voyage in the final great sailing "grain race", leaving from Belfast on a four masted square rigger bound for Australia to bring back several thousand tonnes of antipodean grain.	https://www.amazon.co.uk/Last-Grain-Race-Eric-Newby-ebook/dp/B00KFEH12G/
Coasting Bargemaster	Bob Roberts	Bob Roberts' engaging first hand account of life skippering sailing cargo barges on the Thames Estuary pre and during the second world war, including on one that tried to kill him and his crew.	https://www.amazon.co.uk/Coasting-Bargemaster-Sleightholme/dp/0953818012
Last of the sailormen	Bob Roberts	Bob Roberts' first hand account of skippering during the last days of hauling cargo around the Thames Estuary by sail alone.	https://www.amazon.co.uk/Last-Sailormen-Publisher-Seafarer-Paperback/dp/B00SLSUJJ0/
Riddle of the sands	Erskine Childers	Reputedly the first ever spy novel, and written as a warning about the massing of German naval power before the start of the first world war. A great read, and although fictional his great personal experience of sailing shoal draft craft around the eastern North sea coast shines through.	https://www.amazon.co.uk/Riddle-Sands-Erskine-Childers-ebook/dp/B01KY1YZ2S/

Down to the Sea in Ships	Horatio Clare	About modern life on a container ship out of Felixstowe. Worth it if only for the incredible precision navigation.	https://www.amazon.co.uk/Down-Sea-Ships-Ageless-Oceans/dp/0099526298/
The Command of the Ocean: A Naval History Of Britain, 1649-1815	N. A. M. Rodgers	Fascinating account of british naval history. On the reading list for potential RN officers. How I discovered the origin of the term "Gunboat diplomacy".	https://www.amazon.co.uk/Command-Ocean-History-Britain-1649-1815/dp/0141026901/
The book of tides	William Thomson	Non fiction, written by a graphic artist who has travelled the coasts of the uk with his young family in a camper van to surf. It's written in a refreshingly direct style, and is full of intriguing observations, facts and trivia about everything to do with tides, all explained with expert diagrams. It's not a text book, nor a travelogue. The reviews on Amazon give a flavour of what to expect.	https://www.amazon.co.uk/Book-Tides-William-Thomson/dp/1786480794/
The lonely sea and sky	Francis Chichester		https://www.amazon.co.uk/Lonely-Sea-Sky-Francis-Chichester/dp/184953201X/
